Re: Browns Mountain Recycling South End Project

All business proposals for the New Meadows area should demonstrate compliance with federal, state, and local laws and ordinances. Any proposed industrial use must be well thought out and developed and properly maintained to ensure adherence to these regulations. A project with the potential of impacting water resources needs clearance by the proper environmental authorities. Maintaining a site that has minimal visual impact is important to the character of the neighborhood.

If Mr. Brown has met all conditions and a plan is in place to ensure continued adherence to these conditions, the proposed recycling project may serve as a model for what an industrial development should look like. Historically, our industrial sites haven't been all that eye-appealing. A refreshing change would be appreciated.
